Cassandra Nicolace, Nicholas Ordieres, & Dr. Stephen McDowell

Monique Costner

Dr. Stephen McDowell, Sierra McDonald, & Dr. Defne Bilir

Student Places at National Advertising Competition

Jess Kane is a third year Media Communication Studies student and Vice President of FSU's chapter of Collegiate Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA.) In January, Jess came in second place in the state of Florida at Collegiate DECA's Advertising Campaign competition, qualifying to move forward and compete at the International Competition in Washington D.C.

Ad Club Visits Atlanta Agencies

As a way for students to gain insight into the world of advertising and establish connections with industry professionals, Florida State University's Advertising Club coordinates trips every semester, providing students of all majors the opportunity to visit agencies in different cities. In April, the Ad Club traveled to Atlanta, GA, visiting highly-accredited agencies including Fitzgerald & Co., 22Squared, BBDO Atlanta, and Moxie.

Teacher of the Year, Hilary Brown, Shares Her Expertise with Young Scholars

Hilary Brown received her Bachelor's of Arts in Communication, with a focus in Media Production from FSU in 2007. During her time as a student, she worked with Seminole Productions reporting, producing, and editing live sporting events. Since then, she has been sharing her knowledge in television production, social media, digital design, and more with students as a teacher at Choctawhatchee High School, her alma mater. Brown was recently named Teacher of the Year for her dedication to her students in the classroom and beyond. Though she teaches a multitude of classes, she still finds time to be the school's Social Media Manager, IT Department Chair, and provide unique experiences for her students such as giving them the chance to produce television for school-related and county-wide events.

Erin Lisch Receives Florida Associated Press Award

During her time at FSU, Media Communication alumna, Erin Lisch, combined her two passions of media and sports and began as a reporter for Seminole Sports Magazine, where she was often recognized for her talent and dedication. She went on to shine at WFSU as a sports host and anchor covering Florida State University athletics.

Since then, she has worked at various news stations across the country covering breaking news, and sometimes sports. Erin was recently awarded for her talent in broadcasting by the Florida Associated Press. She is currently a multimedia journalist/reporter at WRTV in Indianapolis.

Ginger Reichl: Founder and President of Pinstripe Marketing

Ginger Reichl, founder and president of Tampa Bay full-service communications firm, Pinstripe Marketing, knew she wanted to have an agency since she was in seventh grade. This entrepreneur says that the best part of her job is being able to work with talented and intelligent individuals who excel in their careers, and producing effective campaigns for them.

Reichl also started a tiny house design firm called Parvus House which is dedicated to the design of eco-friendly, sustainable, and comfortable tiny living spaces.

SCHOOL OF COMMUNICATION ALUMNI

Jamie Rich: Creator of Flamingo Magazine

Writer, creator, publisher, and editor in chief, Jamie Rich received a dual Bachelor's degree in Communication and Creative Writing from FSU in 1999. Ever-learning, Rich has lived all over the world, working in media relations, copy editing, journalism, and more. Her literary work covering travel and culture has been featured in The Washington Post and The New York Times.

In 2016, Rich took her talent to Ponte Vedra Beach, FL, where she launched Florida's one and only statewide feature magazine, the Flamingo, where she works as the editor in chief and publisher. The Flamingo is a guide and inspiration for those interested in visiting the Sunshine State, and is a go-to for Floridians looking to experience and appreciate their home in new ways.

Drew Piers Becomes Partner and Director of Campaigns for Sachs Media Group

CCI alumnus, Drew Piers, earned degrees in Public Relations and Political Science in 2014 before working on his master's degree in Applied American Politics and Policy at FSU.

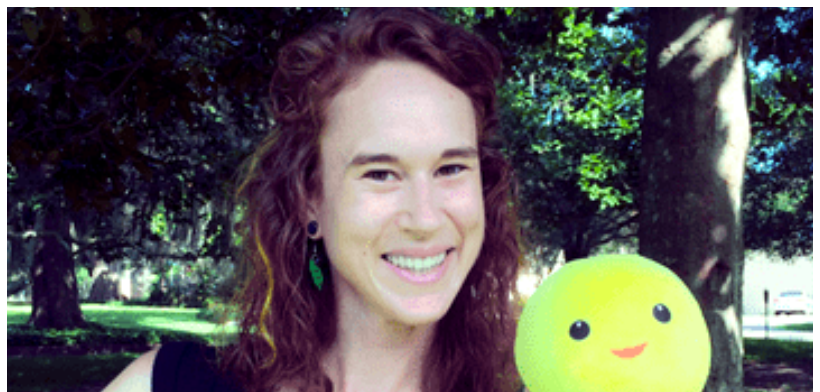

Piers started working at Sachs Media Group as a Public Affairs Associate, where he developed and implemented statewide campaigns through advertising, news, and digital media. His significant work in public affairs gave him the title of Deputy Director before being promoted to Partner and the Director of Crisis and Campaigns. Now Piers helps manage the strategy for clients in crisis management, along with effective messaging campaigns designed to influence important policy decisions.

Santiago to Tallahassee: Kristin Bass-Petersen

Originally from Santiago, Chile, Kristin Bass-Petersen received her Master's in Media & Communication Studies in 2010, and is now Vice President of Digital Media Services at The Pod Advertising in Tallahassee, FL.

Some days she might be taking corporate headshots and other days she is animating 2D characters. While she admits working at a full-service advertising agency is challenging, she finds it very rewarding.

Comm Grad Employed at PCB Chamber of Commerce

The Panama City Beach Chamber of Commerce welcomed recent School of Communication grad, Courtney Calhoun, as their Marketing and Communications Coordinator in January. Courtney graduated with a Bachelor's in Media/Communication Studies in the Summer of 2017, and after interning with the Panama City Beach Chamber of Commerce during the Summer of 2016, Courtney was offered a full time position.

In addition to assisting with the Chamber's events and managing their social media, Calhoun is responsible for their magazine, The Circuit.

Jeffrey Schermer: CCI Alum Turned Disney Creative

Jeffrey Schermer, CCI alumnus and imaginative virtuoso, is using his talents at the "Happiest Place on Earth." Schermer, who graduated in 2015, works on the creative team at Walt Disney World constructing innovative solutions and forming new ways to promote and stimulate Disney Parks and Resorts.

Working with his art direction partner, Schermer is given an objective or problem, is responsible for brainstorming new ways to solve them, and presents ideas to leaders of Disney's partner companies such as Marvel, Pixar, and LucasFilm.

Qaree Dreher: Facebook Account Manager & FSU Alum

Having graduated in 2016 with a B.A. in Public Relations and currently pursuing an M.A. in Integrated Marketing Communication, Qaree Dreher is now working at Facebook as an Account Manager in their Global Marketing solutions area, where he is responsible for driving results via marketing campaigns on Facebook.

Giselle Girones: a Seminole with a Passion for Justice

Miami-born Giselle Girones received her Bachelor's in Communications and Sports Management in 2013. She then went on to pursue a career in law, and now works as a Media and Intellectual Property attorney in Jacksonville with Shullman Fullgate PLLC.

Representing content providers from at-home bloggers to Fortune 500 companies, Girones is responsible for handling a variety of litigation issues. These issues include defending defamation claims, pre-publication reviews, trademark and copyright litigation and prosecution, and commercial litigation matters.

Seminole Productions Prepares for ACC Network Launch

The School of Communication houses the video production unit, Seminole Productions, which produces more than 100 television programs annually for FSU athletics. They are preparing for an expansion including two additional control rooms so they can better handle the ACC Network Launch in August 2019. Seminole Productions is considered a trendsetter in its industry with access to state-of-the-art equipment.

The 2018 South Asian Media and Cultural Studies Conference

This year was the fourth annual South Asian Media and Cultural Studies conference at the FSU's Center for Global Engagement. The event, hosted by the School of Communication, gave attendees a new perspective of South Asia. It was a great opportunity for sharing and learning about the many cultures in these countries from those both on campus and other visitors that travelled to share their knowledge.

School of Communication Hosts Media2Inspire Symposium

A conference focused on the power of media, Media2Inspire featured some of the latest research on the effects of media content on self-transcendent emotions. Social-science scholars gathered together to discuss three main content themes: entertainment, political communication and news, and new media/technology. School of Communication professor, Dr. Art Raney, organized the event.

John DuBard: Inaugural Seminole 100 Honoree and Established Communications Professor

Current School of Communication faculty member and founder of Advanced Systems Design, John DuBard, is an FSU alumnus with an M.A. in Theater and a Ph.D. in Communication. He also holds a B.A. in Mathematics. This man of many talents has spent years in the Air Force, worked in IT for the State of Florida, started his own business, and still finds time to teach at Florida State University. DuBard spent 20 years voluntarily coaching youth sports, has written a full-length musical with 14 original songs (which was performed in Thomasville, Georgia), and continues to take vocal lessons. He is also responsible for founding the FSU Project Management Center and the FSU Graduate Certificate in Project Management.

Spring Graduates Earn Multicultural Marketing Communication Certificates

FSU's Delta Zeta sorority presented the School of Communication Science & Disorders with a final check for $8,215.86 to fulfill their five-year commitment of $50,000 to support the Integrated Preschool Program. The endowment will help fund student training in using intervention techniques within a naturalistic classroom setting, as well as provide support for faculty research and facilities' needs.

The Student Academy of Audiology Hosts Kicks for Communication

The Student Academy of Audiology hosted Kicks for Communication, a fun-filled kickball tournament which raised money for FSU's Speech and Hearing Clinic. All proceeds came from faculty, students, and friends and went directly to the Clinic.

Mackenzie Bowlin Named 2018 President's Humanitarian of the Year

Recent graduate, Mackenzie Bowlin, earned a bachelor's degree in Communication Science and Disorders after a very fulfilling experience at FSU. Bowlin was involved with organizations such as Garnet and Gold Key, The FSU Student Foundation, and Chi Omega. She was awarded the President's Humanitarian Award for her volunteering in China, local orphanages, Filters of Hope missions, and the Make a Wish Foundation. After grading, Mackenzie will spend a year traveling as a National Leadership Consultant for Chi Omega sorority, then attend UNC-Chapel Hill in August of 2019 to earn a Master of Science in Speech-Language Pathology.

Alumni Create Program to Give Voice to Speechless

Isabel Lawton and Alisha Russell are both 2013 Master's graduates of the FSU School of Communication Science & Disorders. Together, they have co-created a program called Brooks Rehab Alternative Voices (BRAV) that works to bring speech-activating equipment to patients who are unable to speak.

One of their goals is to offer consistent and up-to-date training with Augmentative and Alternative Communication (AAC) systems to speech language pathologists across the Brooks system of care, where Lawton and Russel work.

Lisa Fitton: Postdoctoral Researcher at Florida Center for Reading Research

FSU has partnered with MIT and Harvard in an initiative to improve early childhood literacy through personalized intervention. Postdoctoral researcher Lisa Fitton helps develop tasks included in reading assessments while striving to eliminate the likelihood of testing biases.

Abby Delehanty Wins P.E.O. Scholar Award

Doctoral candidate Abby Delehanty is the recipient of a Philanthropic Educational Organization (P.E.O.) Scholar Award of $15,000.

The award will support her research aiming to identify early signs of autism in young children.

SCHOOL OF INFORMATION STUDENTS

ICT Student and Inventor, Paul Woodley, Places As a Finalist in InNOLEvation Challenge

Expected to graduate in May 2020 with a dual degree in Information, Communication, and Technology (ICT), and Entrepreneurship, Paul Woodley competed in the 2018 InNOLEvation Challenge.

With the opportunity to win prize money, students of all majors presented their entrepreneurial ideas to help turn them into reality.

Woodley credits ICT as providing him a platform to grow his computing skills, not only for his product, Jump Start Recovery 1.1, but for any industry.

At the end of the competition, Woodley and his team were awarded the Spirit of Entrepreneurship Award for $4,000, in addition to $5,000 through the Jim Moran Micro Grant.

STARS Alliance Runs Technology Program at Middle School

This Spring, an interdisciplinary group of students part of CCI's STARS Alliance led a weekly after school program at R. Frank Nims Middle School to introduce children to basic engineering concepts and coding.

The program's workshops focused on new technology, promoting problem solving and critical thinking, and providing a level of confidence for the students.

SCHOOL OF INFORMATION ALUMNI

PhD grads awarded Frances Henne Research Grant

In February, the Young Adult Library Services Association (YALSA) awarded the 2018 Frances Henne Research Grant to Anderson and Phillips for their research project, “Youth with Autism and Digital Citizenship in the Library: What They Need and What Brings Them In.” The project’s goal is to understand how public library based digital citizenship programming would be receptive to youth with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD).

Anderson will be joining the faculty of Old Dominion University as an assistant professor in the library science program, part of the STEM Department in the Darden College of Education.

Phillips, a Postdoctoral Fellow in the Department of Instructional Technology and Learning Sciences at Utah State University, recently accepted a faculty position at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee and is thrilled to start teaching future librarians.

ICT Alum, Officer Carter Rooney

Carter Rooney graduated from FSU in 2016 with a bachelor’s in Information, Communication, and Technology. Since then, Rooney has taken his knowledge and skillsets to an unconventional setting. After graduation, Rooney moved to Austin, TX, where he entered the police academy before becoming a patrol officer for the Austin Police Department. Now, Rooney serves his fellow citizens by regularly responding to 911 calls in his assigned area, running traffic, community policing, looking for drugs or other illegal substances/activities, and keeping the community safe.

Julia Skinner is Connecting People Through Food

iSchool alumna, Julia Skinner, is using her interdisciplinary background to bring communities together and plan events that connect modern people with historic food. With loves for culinary history and cooking, Skinner started her business, Root. She collaborates with nonprofits and community organizations to offer a variety of services that reach populations from university faculty to the film industry, event planning, menu design, and preserving personal cookbook/recipe collections. She brings in unique recipes and shares the history behind them. Root also offers monthly membership programs like weekly food histories and recipes from around the world.

COLLEGE HAPPENINGS

The Future of Learning: FSU Opens New Innovation Hub

One of FSU's strategic goals is to deepen its commitment to continuous innovation. In the quest to put students at the forefront of the technology revolution and the job market, FSU has opened the new, state-of-the-art Innovation Hub.

Along with a collaborative workspace for students to share ideas, create prototypes and come up with solutions to real-world problems, The Hub also is where they can build and expand on designs and projects.

CCI Spring Career Fair Brings Alumni Back to Campus

The CCI Spring Career Fair featured over 40 employers from local communication and technology sectors. This gives students the opportunity to network with companies that are specifically looking for Information Technology and Communication majors.

A unique feature of this fair is that more than two thirds of the recruiters at the event were alumni of the College, returning to campus to interview and meet with the next generation of talent.

STARS Alliance Students Take a Trip to Atlanta

Members of the STARS Alliance got the chance to meet up with alumni at Chick-fil-A, AT&T, GM, and The Home Depot to attend Open-House Recruiting.

STARS president, Rhiannon Jacobson, said, "Overall, our trip to Atlanta was a success. As we were given this great opportunity to tour a variety of companies, it was evident that they not only have a strong relationship with FSU, but are willing to help students prepare for careers in their specific fields. All four companies had something different to offer the students but, all encouraged us to pursue our goals whether it is with that company or not. Touring these facilities gives you an inside look to what each company has to offer and the work environment they possess."

COLLEGE HAPPENINGS

CCI Hosts the Fifth Annual Women in Leadership Conference

CCI hosted the fifth annual Women in Leadership Conference on March 8, International Women's Day. With 425+ students, alumni and community members in attendance, the conference was co-sponsored by the College of Business, College of Social Work, and the Jim Moran School for Entrepreneurship. It was designed to celebrate the success of women and empower others under the theme of "Learn, Inspire, and Engage."

Dean Larry Dennis said, "Our FSU students are already inspiring us through their work both in the classroom and in the community; this event provides spaces to grow, opportunities to share and network, a place to seek mentors and to then make plans to continue those conversations after the conference ends; FSU's College of Communication & Information will continue its support of our students and our alumni. Five years after we started this event, we have seen a tremendous positive response and we will continue to be a part of the conversation and effort as we go forward."

Jerome the Gnome: CCI's New Travel Buddy

Meet Jerome the Gnome, the CCI's new travel buddy! Jerome was named by followers on social media where they were given the chance to send in name ideas and vote for their favorite name! Jerome has already travelled to the Eastern State Communication Convention in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and to the Florida Library Association Conference in Orlando, Florida. He has plans to head overseas and travel to more cities across the U.S. this summer.

Students Shine at Esteemed Conferences

CCI brought research into the real world by making appearances at multiple conferences. School of Information students and faculty attended the ALISE conference in February in Denver, CO, and School of Communication students and faculty attended the ICA conference in May in Prague.

FSU iCamp to Promote STEM Education

FSU iCamp offers a pre-collegiate summer experience in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics for talented high school students from underprivileged groups. Thanks to partnership with AEOP and TSA, CCI will offer 6 weeks of summer technology activities on campus.
